

Abstract

A polyaxial pedicle screw assembly incorporates a concave portion on a receiver which mates with a convex
5 surface on a head of the screw to form a ball joint. The radius of at least a portion of the concave surface is less than a radius of the mating convex portion whereby to create an interference fit.

201110-0554001